

THE CONVERSION LEAK CHECK

12 reasons your website loses customers, and how to spot them.

This is the first thing we look at in a SYNC Audit, simplified so you can run it on your own site in about ten minutes. Go through your homepage or landing page and answer each one honestly. Every "no" is a leak costing you customers you already paid to attract.

01

Open your site on your phone, on mobile data, as if you were a first-time visitor.

02

Answer each of the 12 checks with a yes or a no. Be honest, not hopeful.

03

Count your nos. The last page tells you what the number means.

SECTION 01 · THE FIRST 5 SECONDS

Whether a stranger stays or leaves is decided before they read anything.

01 ☐ Can a stranger tell what you do and who it's for within 5 seconds?

Show your homepage to someone who's never seen it for 5 seconds, then hide it. If they can't say what you sell and who it's for, neither can your visitors.

02 ☐ Is there one clear next action, or three competing ones?

Count the buttons and links above the fold. One primary action focuses the visitor. Five scatter them, and a scattered visitor does nothing.

03 ☐ Does your headline say what the visitor gets, or what you do?

"We build custom websites" is about you. "Turn more of your visitors into customers" is about them. Visitors care about themselves, not your service.

SECTION 02 · DO THEY BELIEVE YOU

A visitor who doesn't trust you won't buy, no matter how good the offer.

04 ☐ Is your proof visible before they have to go looking for it?

Results, reviews, and recognizable names should appear early, not buried at the bottom. Proof delayed is trust lost.

05 ☐ Do you answer "why should I trust you" before you ask for anything?

If your first call to action arrives before any proof, you're asking for commitment you haven't earned yet.

06 ☐ Would a skeptical buyer find a doubt you haven't addressed?

Price, risk, "will this work for me," "what if I'm not technical." The objections you ignore are the ones that quietly cost you the sale.

SECTION 03 · CAN THEY ACT

Every extra step between wanting and doing loses a share of people.

07 ☐ How many steps between "I'm interested" and "done"?

Count the clicks and form fields from decision to completion. Every extra one leaks people. The best funnels remove steps, they don't add them.

08 ☐ Does your site load in under 3 seconds on mobile data?

Test on your phone off wifi. Every second of load time past three drops conversions measurably. Speed is a conversion feature, not a technical detail.

09 ☐ Is your main call to action the same clear action everywhere?

If one section says "Book a call," another "Get started," and a third "Contact us," you've split your visitor's attention three ways. One action, repeated, converts best.

SECTION 04 · ARE YOU MEASURING

You can't fix a leak you can't see. Most sites are flying blind.

10 ☐ Do you know your current conversion rate?

If the answer is no, that's leak number one. Without it, you're guessing at every change and can't tell if anything is working.

11 ☐ Do you know which page most visitors leave from?

Your exit pages are a map of exactly where you're losing people. If you don't know them, you're fixing the wrong things.

12 ☐ Is every section earning its place, or is some of it just there?

Sliders, "welcome" paragraphs, stock-photo banners. If a section doesn't move someone closer to buying, it's giving them a reason to stop scrolling.

NOW · COUNT YOUR NOS

Be honest. The number tells you what kind of problem you have.

What your score means

Every "no" is a place your website quietly loses a customer you already worked to attract. This isn't about design taste. It's about whether the site does its one job: turning visitors into customers.

Solid. Small tweaks, not a rebuild.
Fix the nos and move on.

3 – 5

Real leaks. You're losing sales you can't see. Worth a proper look.

6+

It's not a design problem, it's a conversion problem. This is our whole job.

WHEN YOU'RE READY

Want us to run all 12 on your actual site?

That's the SYNC Audit. We go through your real pages, your real numbers, and hand you a prioritized fix list, whether you build with us or not. It's the fastest way to see exactly where your customers are leaking, and what it's worth to plug it.
